Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 07 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Often rather cloudy but mostly dry. Feeling warm.

Today:
A grey and rather murky start for many, with pockets of drizzle, especially over higher ground. Through the day, the cloud should generally lift and thin, revealing warm sunny spells, especially in the east and downwind of high ground elsewhere. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
The majority of places remaining dry through the evening and overnight with variable, often large amounts of cloud. Some fog patches may form where any clear spells persist. Very mild. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
Another grey start but some bright or sunny spells developing by the afternoon. Feeling warm in the sunshine and light winds. A few showers possible across eastern counties later. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Early fog on Saturday gradually clearing to leave a dry afternoon with warm sunny spells. Cloudier with a few showers on Sunday, before the sunshine returns on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.